Two years ago Peter Phelps was homeless and living in a Boston shelter and did not have walls to hang his artwork on. Thanks to Hearth, he now has a one-bedroom apartment and has returned to his love of painting.

For Phelps, donating his works to Hearth are his way of saying "thank you" for finding him a home. Proceeds will benefit Hearth and its mission to end elder homelessness. Phelps believes everyone can make a difference. "It's important to give back," he says.

Phelps has been featured in The Boston Globe and the Boston Herald, as well as on NECN, WBZ TV and Radio, WBUR and on the national news program CBS Sunday Morning.
